Teachers are everyday superheroes. What if your child could say thank you to the person who helps them every day? The person who brought a little light in the darkness of this pandemic to our kids? During the COVID19 pandemic teachers were one of the few "normal" things in their lives. Teachers were consistently there every morning to greet your child on that computer. No matter what was going on in their own home or how much fear they felt, they worked to provide normalcy to the lives of the children they work so hard to keep safe, teach and love everyday. If students had the words to express their gratitude, this book is how they would express it. They would say thank you to all the "Teachers" for making the world a little less scary. Don't you have a teacher you need to thank today?
