Not even his psychic visions prepared him for her...

Retired Marine Raider Gator Rochambeau is struggling. He should be focused on his mission. Instead, he's distracted by bizarre psychic visions—and by the beautiful asset the CIA is using to stop a billion-dollar coup that could devastate the world helium market. All he knows now is that he better get his head on straight, or people could die...maybe even him...

Special Ops pilot Christen Davidson is out of her comfort zone. All she wanted was to fly a rescue mission and save some fellow operators. Instead, she's playing dress-up for the CIA while trying (and failing) to ignore her attraction to a man she has no business fantasizing about. This is not why she joined the military...

For Gator and Christen, there's nowhere to run and nowhere to hide—not from their mission, and not from their feelings. They'll have to trust each other implicitly if they want to survive. But what if trust is a luxury they just can't afford in this high-stakes international game? Only time—and maybe fate—will tell...
